

Call Him "Father."

Boys, when you speak of your father don't call him "the old man." Of course you are older now than when you were taught to call him father. You are much smarter than you were then, you are much more manly looking, your clothes fit you better, your hat has a modern shape and your hair is combed differently. In short, "flyer" than you were then. Your father has a last year's coat, a 2 year old hat, and a vest of still older pattern. He can't write such an elegant note as you can, and all that, but don't call him "the old man." Call him father. For years he has been rustling around to get things together. He has been held to the horny path of up-hill industry and the brightest half of life has gone from him forever. But he loves you, though he goes along without saying much about it therefore he is not so ungrateful.

Whale Skin For White Shoes.

Ten tons of skins of the beluga or white whale received from Bering Sea are being shipped from Seattle to Eastern shoe factories today to be made into white shoes now so popular with women. The beluga abounds in Bering Sea and Cook Inlet, and the new fashion has stimulated the hunting of the animal. Only the inner skin is used, but it is so thick that four sheets of thin leather may be obtained by splitting. Glove factories, also, are seeking beluga skins.

Grain For the Skim-Milk Calf.

Calves are usually fed whole milk for two to three weeks, then gradually changed to skim-milk. About the time of changing, begin to feed a little grain but do not think that it is necessary to use oil meal or any other high-priced feed high in protein, or fat, or both. Experience at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station shows that a mixture of two parts of corn and one part of oats, by weight, gives as good results as oil meal and ready-mixed calf meals often purchased at much higher prices. Bran is not especially good for the young calf because it is too laxative. The grain mixture should be fed immediately after the milk, and neither should be fed too liberally or scours may result.—L. W. Wing, Missouri College of Agriculture.

Why is the horse shoe considered a sign of good luck? There is nothing especially pretty about a horse's cast-off iron shoes, and no doubt not one horse shoe believer in 1,000,000 can tell why he treasures it.

The origin of the superstition can be traced back to the thirteenth century.

The monk of Gervaise of Tilbury informs us that at that time there was a kind of demon in England which appeared as a horse rearing on its hind legs and with sparkling eyes. Whenever this apparition was seen it was a sign that a conflagration would soon break out.

Hence, as giving a kindly warning, this mysterious horse was regarded as a friendly spirit, and the animal in general was believed to be a beneficent mystic power.

A horse tooth carried in the pocket prevented toothache; it was a sign of good luck to find a horse shoe, and one was placed under the pillow of a child to cure the colic, or nailed against a building to prevent it catching fire. This led to its general adoption as a protective symbol.—Selected.

At a "chicken shower" given a prospective bride in Louisiana one day last week, the young lady received 370 "articles of poultry," from baby chicks to stag roosters.

The Hustler.

I am the guy called printer's ink; I put hard times upon the blink—My face is black is Erebus—But I'm a lively, hustling cuss. I make men rich who once were poor—
I'm on the job, I am for sure. I get work for the lab'ring man And help to fill his dinner can; I aid girls who must earn their feed—
I am the friend of all in need. I sell all things from pins to guns. In cargoes of ten thousand tons. I'm on the job both night and day. Away from work I never stay. I am "A1," "O. K.," and "It," And I take a vacation—nit. I serve the small as well as the great (See business office for my rate.) I am the guy that brings the dough—
Just try me and you'll find it so.—Danville Commercial News.

Found Dead at His Plow

Alexander Baker, 83 years old and a highly respected citizen of Macon county was found dead at his plow in a field near Cox Post-office one day last week. The end had evidently come to him very suddenly as his body was lying across the plow and between the handles as if he had suddenly fallen forward and died without a struggle. The team which was a quiet one, had evidently stopped as he fell, and the lines were still wrapped around his shoulders.

A Silo on Every Farm

M. A. R. Kelle, Missouri College of Agriculture.

Practically every farmer has planted crops this spring which will furnish more feed if put into the silo than if handled in any other way. In most cases they will also make more money, particularly if the season should be wet or or late or both, as last year was.

A few statements from farm letters will help tell why our slogan should be "A silo on every farm" and why every Missouri farmer should join those in the state who have already built about 10,000 silos. Some of them say:

"I never fed any other feed as cheap as silage."

"I wouldn't be without a silo. Mine paid for itself in two years."

"I practically wintered twenty head of stock on thirteen acres of silage, and wouldn't have had nearly enough if fed from the field."

A well-built silo of any type will keep silage well, so the cost of different materials will in many cases decide whether to buy or build, and what type of silo to select. In choosing, low first cost, cheap maintenance, durability, and smooth air tight wall should be demanded. Ordinarily the more permanent silo should be built.

Plans and instructions for building concrete silos may be secured from the College of Agriculture, Columbia Missouri, and a circular giving full directions for building a Gurler silo is also available.

O-o-o-o-o Henry!

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—Before departing on a fishing trip today Henry Ford, in reply to Col. Roosevelt's speech in Detroit Friday, said:

"I consider an ex-President but little different from the ordinary citizen. In Roosevelt's case it is different. It has been seven years since he was president, and in that time he has entirely failed to understand the trend of events and the sentiments of the people."

"I consider Roosevelt so antiquated that the 'ex' business does not mean anything. You know what the 'ex' amounts to anyway. I consider him just an ordinary citizen because he does not keep up with the times."

Married Step Brother.

Last week Lena L. Padgett and Guy A. Doyle of the northern part of the county, were married.

The bride was only 15 years of age and was a step sister of the groom. Her mother, Mrs. Ada V. Doyle gave her written consent in order that the license might be secured.

"Funny, isn't it?" said a Breckenridge blacksmith to the Bulletin man. "I saw a farmer the other day who used to kick and bellow like a bay steer because I charged him $1 for shoeing his horse some years ago. He owns a motor car, and I saw him write out a check for $18.50 for a new tire and never bat an eye."

We have home money to loan on farm lands in amounts from $500.00 to $1500.00. A. S. Jayne & Son
